Year 4

Aladdin was so cold
and the cave was dark
and creepy and gloomy.

Aladdin was weeping and
sad and scared.

Aladdin smell horrible smell
like rotten.

27. 09. 23 Jinnah With An offer

Yawning and stretching, his hand brushed against the iron ring in his pocket that he'd completely forgotten about.

~~He~~ Bam. Crash. Slash. The cave exploded with light.

Like there was loud thunder and Aladdin could see the cave rumbling.

He could feel it. He could feel the shock deep in his heart as it started to heat faster.

He could taste the dirt and the dust. He could hear ... the stones cracking.

Year 5

When we finally got there we had to stand in the ^{longest} ~~que~~ queue in the world! The other people looked like ^{big} animals with ^{big} lizard feet, ^{big} horns and an eagle ^{beak}! Is it ^{real} or my imagination? Or... Am I dreaming? Ouch! no. After a ~~few~~ ^{while} what felt like ^{long} days we ~~got~~ eventually got to the ticket office. ~~Dad~~ Dad, who loved money and great deals, started to argue with the ticket man. Mum, who wished she never suggested the idea to go to the zoo, sighed with frustration. I felt mortified as he tried to get a discount, pretending he came ~~everyday~~! It didn't work. He still had to pay 50£. Mum tried to pay instead but dad just pushed her back. The ticket man was on the fence to call security.

Viking Raids

The Vikings were successful raiders because they had longships to sail from Scandinavia in summer, when the snow and ice had melted, and create surprise attacks. Their weaponry included: long, double-edged metal swords or axes and a round wooden shield. Viking nobles and chieftains wore chainmail armour into battle but it was expensive so only the richest warriors wore it. To protect themselves from the cold, they wore ~~one~~ an under-tunic and trousers. Viking helmets were ~~made~~ iron or leather and did not have horns on them however one group of Vikings, called Berserkers wore bearskins into battle. Vikings had leather shoes with laces and some pairs had hobnails to help them last longer. When charging into battle, Vikings made a shield-wall to protect themselves and bravery was everything, even if you died, because Odin would then send you to valhalla or Viking heaven.

Michael's lifeless body was pushed and pulled around in the ice-cold sea. It felt like Michael's body would never stop drifting in the endless sea elements... Dreaming about holding stella in his arms, Michael realized he was holding onto something. When he opened his eyes, he woke out of his dream. He saw it was a football, not any football... his football. His belief that he was still alive soon turned into panic as he was out of energy and Michael was freezing cold. His balance is fading fast; his little strength he had left was plummeting withering. How will he survive? How will he die? How will he beat the hostile sea?
