Doing it with Pride!

We have been writing a lot about inclusion in this newsletter, whether it be marking National Autism week, ensuring our curriculum is a truer reflection of our school community or unveiling our intention to open a resource base in the coming months.

In this spirit, we have been celebrating June's 'Pride Month' with the rest of the school. This week in assembly, Ms Rennie shared a book about the life (and death) of Harvey Milk (click on the image for a version of the text). The children have been coming into the office all week to either ask further questions or have a read of the book. Whilst marking special events is important in raising the profile and awareness, we have ensured that our children are regularly questioning what it means to be a part of a family and developing an understanding of how families can have a range of structures. Our commitment to this is outlined in our Equality Objectives -

Equality Objective #3 - To embed a wider shared understanding of different family structures and relationships within a modern society.

Outside, all of You... Now!

The whole school took to the playground to take part in NSPCC's Big Breaktime - a chance for children to play and bond and experience the school's extensive outside spaces. Year 5 took the chance to break out their beach volleyball skills!!

Summer Celebration

We will be writing to all parents soon with details of how to buy tickets for the return of Edmund Waller's super summer celebration. We are making our debut at the prestigious Troxy Venue. We are expecting tickets to retail at around £25. We wanted to let families know in advance. More details coming soon.

EW Summer Fair

Calling all kind hearted and good minded souls to help with the EW PTA Summer Fair, which will take place next Saturday - 18th June. We are looking for donations and would be especially keen to have some helping hands next Thursday & Friday to get ready for the fair.

We're all Poets, Innit!

Edmund Waller were named as 'outstanding school' in the recent Live Canon poetry competition. One of Y5 pupils even made the shortlist for the publication of this year's anthology.
