WEEKLY NEWSLETTER

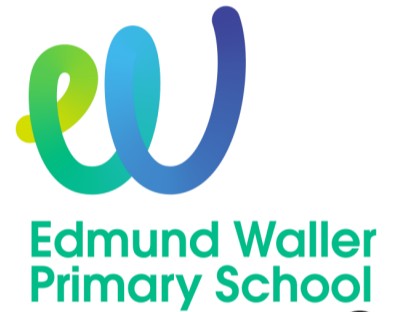

1st July 2022

Its here the new school logo. We are very happy to reveal the new Edmund Waller Primary School logo, which we are very proud of. As we move forward as an organisation, we have looked at every aspect of the school, from the curriculum to the way we appear to the wider community. The previous logo and identity felt like they had done their job and it was time for a refresh. You will have seen physical manifestations of this change around the school - the raised beds and panelling around the main gate, for example. Now you can see the logo, which will now be appearing on signage, letterheads, book-bags and even on the PTA class totebags. (further details below)

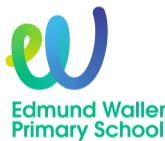

In keeping, with our efforts to reduce our environmental impact and bring our practices kicking and screaming into the 21st Century, this year we will be sending out the children's end of term reports by email on Friday 8th July. These reports have been redesigned to reflect the school's new identity and are looking lovely - if we do say so ourselves! If you have any issue receiving emails from school then please call the office to check we have the correct contact details.

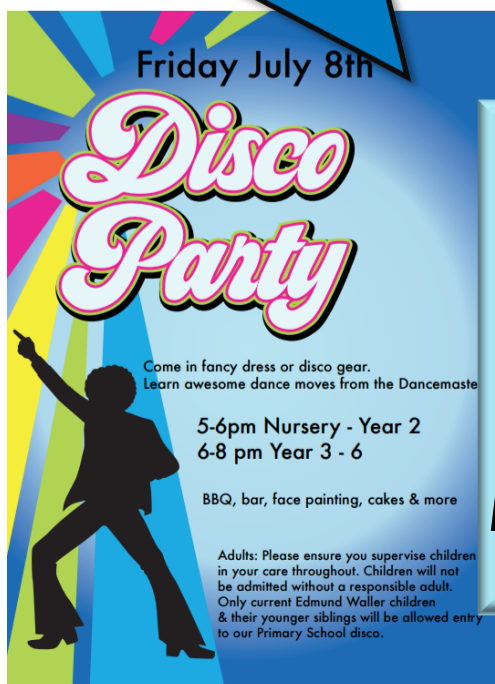

We Have Lift Off!!
Wow, local residents were mildly bemused at the sight of EW children streaming into the school with all manner of rockets! We had tinfoil and foot pumps, vinegar and even some aileron. All day the classes have been seeing if their rockets have the altitude to match the attitude!

D.I.S.C.O.
The PTA are back... with a vengeance! Following the summer fair, which was a resounding success, its time for the tantrums, tiaras and sequins as the disco returns. Next Friday 8th July - see the poster on the second page.

TOTES possible... Until Monday!!
The PTA have asked us to make one reminder that the final deadline for orders of class tote bags (complete with new logo!) is Monday 4th July. You can place and pay for your order at the PTA table in the playground at the end of today and Monday.
