How Significant Was the Blitz 12/6/2

Introduction
 In this double page spread you will learn about an event called the Blitz and all its facts and how it made a big change.

Till and Martin

When my class went to the Imperial War Museum we met Till and Martin. Till was a soldier and Martin was a soldier. Till talked about how she had to move to a new family and Martin explained his experience in the army.

What was The Blitz?
 The Blitz began on 7th September 1940 and lasted until May 1941. The first attack came in daylight. The War was against Germany and United Kingdom. The Germans targeted 16 different British cities including London. The German leader Adolf Hitler was a bad man and a liar which made some Germans to move to a new family and Martin explained his experience in the army.

Did you know?
 During the bombing of the Blitz, many people from Britain mostly spent their time hiding in bunkers or shelters.

Flash fiction

19-6-2024

I would never forget the ~~day~~ my first day at the workhouse. How the iron gates screached horribly as they opened. The first face thing I saw was the face of an obtuse man although ~~the~~ he looked rich and well fed. He had a round of head and triple chin, he also had eyes as round as an orange. His outfit looked as if he were an admiral or a member of the navy. As I simply walked past him without him ~~notice~~ noticing. I waddled ~~to~~ through the hallway and into the dining room.

I couldn't believe my eyes, the dining room was full of children in rags and soot all over there faces. They were all holding metal bowls and spoons with gruel inside. "Why are you out of your seat child?" spat ~~was~~ an old man. "Sorry." I whimpered.
