The Victorian Era

What was the Victorian era?

The Victorian Era was from 1837 to 1901.

It was called the Victorian Era because the queen was called Victoria. She was born in 1819 and was crowned in 1837. She died in 1901.

poor children

To be poor or working class means to not have a lot of money. Poor children would normally mean working as a coal miner, a factory worker or a domestic servant. They wore scraps of cloth and only some would have had decent clothes. If they were very poor, they would go to a workhouse where they would use dangerous machines and are given which was like watered down porridge.

rich children

To be rich you have to have lots of money and expensive clothing. The only work rich people had to do was school and it was normally taught to them at home. They would have played with dolls, zoetropes and rocking horses.

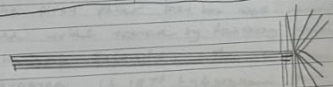

Did U Know

School Life

Victorian school life was very strict and sometimes dangerous. First only rich kids went to school but then in 1871 ragged schools were introduced for poor children. They learnt reading, writing and arithmetic. Teachers would normally punish children with the cane, birch or a ruler.

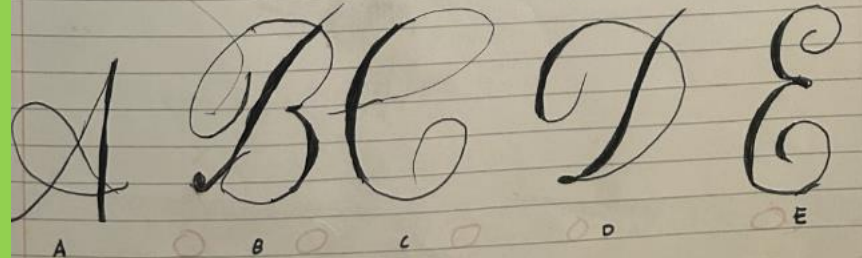

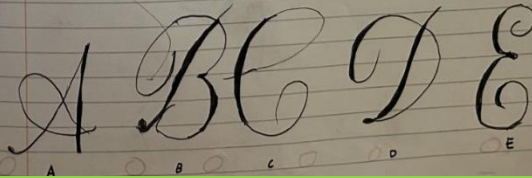

Life was very hard for a Victorian and lots of children lost their lives in a fire.

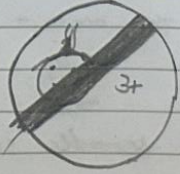

The fire in 1836.

Victorian inventions

The first telegraph was invented by William Fothergill Cooke and Charles Wheatstone in 1837 - just makes it into the Victorian Era. The first pillar post box was made in 1853 and trial tested by Anthony Trollope on the Channel Islands. The first telephone was invented in 1876 by Graham Bell and with the help of Thomas Watson. In 1851, the building called the Crystal Palace was made. For some reason in 1852 it was relocated to the Crystal Palace Park we know now. But sadly it burnt to the ground in a huge fire in 1936.

Queen Victoria I

The Victorian era started in 1837 to 1901. The Victorian era was called that because their Queen's name was called Victoria. Queen Victoria was a queen for almost 64 years.

This is a drawing of a Victorian era woman.

Poor child

Life was really different depending on rich or poor people. Poor people's children work. This means you need to work for money. Poor people's children usually do a lot of work like:

- Chimney sweep
- Coal miner

Rich child

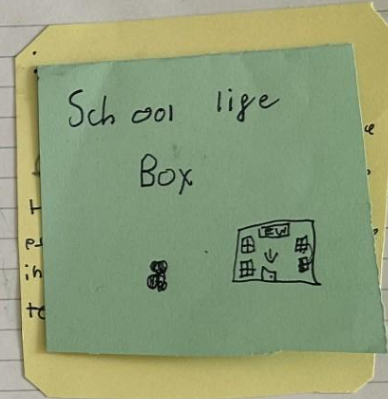

Rich children went to upper class. The only job they had was ~~study~~ study. They played with toys like a rocking horse.

DID YOU KNOW VERY RICH PEOPLE HAVE THEIR CHILDREN STUDY AT HOME

• Fred

"Who fancy a dip?" called Lila, diving herself into the river ^{which was} reflecting as much light as the sun.
 After not much longer, all of the children had toppled in the water - it was a life like heaven that left behind all their fears aches and pain. Now they were swimming in a sea of diamonds. "Lose one to the

"Who wants a sweet treat?" called Lila getting impatient every time. As the children got closer to their destiny, the ~~river~~^{water} hummed a ~~beat~~ soulful tune. The river was a jazzy musician calming every one who goes by. The river is a dream that can't be explained! The river healed their cuts like in a natural way that made them relaxed. jump.

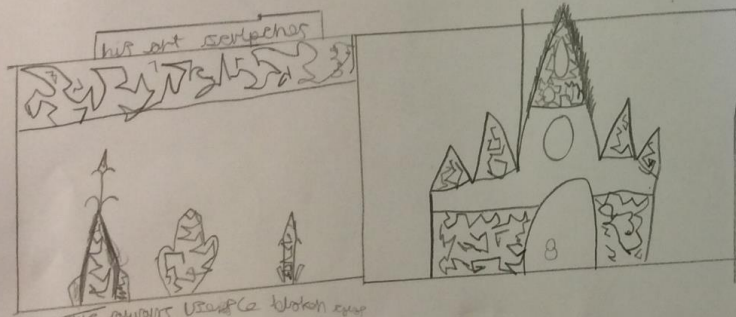

"Last one to the other side is getting all our good for the time we are here." yelled Can as her arm and legs gliding through the river making a path. She knew that her arms and legs would never let her down. As she is small she was sowing of her moves. Fred peered out into the clear horizon as he his friends dived out. Getting into the creamy water Fred saw a figger, a beady-eyed, horinging, hungry. Fred heart raced... His mind was wipe of a minute. The figger was in front of Can making a swirl in the river. "Caution!" he belowed in his loudest voice. This was a disaster.

Erling Haaland!

I'm sitting here lazy, useless, warming the bench, not being able to make a difference for my team.

He was so disappointed; this was the biggest moment of his life. But there was nothing he could do about it. He begged and begged, but his coach wouldn't put him on. After all, he was injured.

The score was 2-1 to Man United. In the ninetieth minute, the crowd screamed, cheered, and shouted for a goal. Man city's Kevin De Bruyne made a through ball to Jerian Dooku, and he ran with the ball towards the goal. With the goalkeeper in sight, he fired the shot. The fans waited for the ball to land. The goalkeeper dived the wrong way and the ball flew past him.

The happiness on every Man City fan's face was amazing. Was this going to be the equaliser? But the ball rolled and rolled on to the post. Haaland couldn't believe it, and all the fans couldn't believe it either. All were swearing at him, but then -- Chirp! Chirp! The final whistle was blown, with all the fans in disbelief that the match was over.

It couldn't be, but it was. Haaland had to keep training. He swore he would never lose again. The next couple of months flew by and his injury went away. He started to train harder than ever, and began getting ready for the next match. He had just got news about the group stage for the UCL next week.

"Yes, this is the time for my team to redeem themselves!"

He trained and trained, more and more until the day came. When Haaland woke, he joyfully hopped in his car and drove to the training ground for his next match at Westham stadium.

Man City were up against West Ham in the group stages of the champions league. They had six games until round of sixteen and they had to make it to the round of 16.

John Motson with his thunderous voice bellowed about the game on the television, and Alan Green, another entertaining commentator with his powerful voice on BBC radio, would make this game unforgettable. Millions were listening to their commentaries. This was the game Haaland was craving for like a hawk craving for its prey.

Haaland kicked off at a slow pace to Alvarez who quickly shot past to Kyle Walker in the back line, who made a brilliant pass to Foden who put a through ball to Haaland. In a blink of an eye, Haaland fired a shot and hit the crossbar. This made the Man City fans sigh in disappointment. This brought them to half time.

Haaland pumped with energy as the score was still 0-0. West Ham started with the ball, and took advantage on a quick counterattack. There were not many defenders for Man City. Lucas Paqueta fired the ball into the box and Danny Ings scored a header past Ederson.

The ball was centred again, and Man City making a quick run into West Ham's box, the ball was knuckled to Jack Grealish who netted a goal. The minutes that followed were very tense.

However, Haaland being the main man, he buried the ball into the net on the 89th minute of the game to the excitement of the fans. The game finished 2-1 to man city.

The rounds of sixteen games were dominated and destroyed by Haaland and they went to the final.

The Final was between Man city and Real Madrid at the Santiago Bernabeu. The game kicked off at 9:30pm. On the first half, Real Madrid were greedy for goals, and scored two in just a matter of minutes. Changes were made on the side of Man City. They made a quick switch from Alvarez to Kevin De Bruyne, and they scored their first goal. Karim Benzema, out of nowhere, scored a beautiful header to increase real Madrid's lead.

Man City felt like it was over, but they picked up hope from their fans and Haaland scored a hat trick to make it 4-3. The game ended as the stadium erupted with excitement.

Man City were crowned champions of 2023.
