A few days later, Aladdin was making money, touring around the streets of his village. But he began to realise how lonely he was, playing on the streets all ~~on~~ alone. But, then he remembered the lamp and the ring and ran back home with a big smile on his face. This time, he decided to take the ~~to~~ ring, but where was it: Aladdin got stressed and ~~panc~~ panicked, but all along ~~it~~ it was in his pocket what a relief. Aladdin dropped the ring on the floor and just like the lamp smoke flew around the room, and after a few seconds he could see a gloomy shadow glaring at him in the distance. "Hello again master what would you like this time?" said the Jinnee of the ring. "A friend, a nice one to" ~~so~~ asked Aladdin "I'm sorry master that is the one thing I will not do, anything else you would like?" "ummm, fine I would like a new drum

Anglo-Saxon Beliefs 7.10.24

Woden

Woden's job was to ride over all of the 9 gods, wisdom, war and war. He was the most powerful of all gods and had a nickname which was Ginn. He was married to Frige Goddess of Spring, marriage, childbirth and home. ~~His~~ His sacred animal was a wolf, and he has two pet wolves. ~~Woden~~ His sacred bird was the raven and his sacred plant was an ash tree. His sacred weapon was a spear.

The day of the week that was named after him was Wednesday. It is named after him because his name starts with W. Another god that Woden is related to is Thor, his son Thor, god of Thunder, storms and lightning.

Woden reminds me of Hades the god of the underworld. In fact, he reminds me of Hades because Woden is god of death and so is Hades. A legacy from the Anglo-Saxon beliefs are some of the names of a weekday. Woden led the wild hunt. These hunters rode across the night sky on their black horses and with wild black dogs, searching for non-believers to punish.

A cold, rusted metal key ~~was~~ ^{was} ~~dropped~~ ^{dropped} ~~into~~ ^{into} her hands. Is it possible? Could it be? All the secrets could be unlocked. Ella, grasping the metal tight, ~~she~~ ^{she} ~~looked~~ ^{looked} through the overgrown garden, ^{the} ~~brambles~~ ^{brambles} trying to ~~pull~~ ^{pull} her back; ~~at~~ ^{at} ~~brambles~~ ^{brambles} ripping the side of her t-shirt. Questions rushing through her head. Gasping for breath, ^{she} ~~reached~~ ^{reached} the door of the house. Her ~~heart~~ ^{heart} ~~beating~~, ^{she} ~~gave~~ ^{gave} ~~a~~ ^a ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~old-wooden~~ ^{old-wooden} door a ~~poor~~ ^{poor} gentle push.

Ella paused, ^{staring} at her surroundings. Long tufts of grass were growing out ^{of} the rotting, wooden floor. The air was thick with mold the smell of mold. Ella ~~started~~ ^{started} sprinting across the floor, ^{dodging} ~~missing~~ ^{missing} floorboards. She ran ~~up~~ ^{up} several dark, eerie staircases. On the way, ~~several~~ ^{several} ~~scary~~ ^{scary} ~~crow~~ ^{crow}s which started ~~beating~~ ^{beating} their wings against the air. What ~~was~~ ^{was} ~~happening~~ ^{happening}? It looked as though ~~it~~ ^{it} had been ~~grozen~~ ^{grozen} ~~in~~ ⁱⁿ ~~here~~ ^{here} from a sudden catastrophe. The reveal

Elle ^{felt} the rusted glaky handle of the key, it looked ~~out~~ ^{centuries old}. She examined it ^{carefully} and ~~on~~ ^{on} saw one word on it: Thornhill. Once inside the house, ~~then~~ ^{Elle} ran up the stairs. The air was thick with the smell of rot and mold. As she plugged the key in the keyhole, her mind raced with the thoughts of what there might be inside. She slowly opened the door, hearing the unkind and ^{creaky} ~~noisy~~ ^{whined} hinges. ~~Then~~ ^{Elle} saw the glistening light from the sun ^{which} seemed to be the only working light source in the Thornhill. She gazed at hundreds of deformed dolls on the shelves, each ^{seemed} ~~to~~ ^{to} have its own personality. Then, out of the corner of her eye, Elle spied two gully dressed dolls on the left-bottom shelf. She walked closer to the dolls and noticed a tag on one of them: 'From Elle's, she picked them up in ~~her~~ ^{her} curiosity but ~~the~~ ^{and} started getting suspicious. Elle looked at the windowsill and saw a book, though it didn't just look like any book, a bulky book with a hard back. She slowly ~~blew~~ ^{blew} a small breath and blew ^{off} the ancient dust. She read the title of the book ^{which} ~~said~~ ^{said}: 'Diary of Mary Baines 1982'. At that moment everything ~~clicked~~ ^{clicked} into place, ~~Elle's~~ ^{Elle's} only friend was a ghost.

The reveal 2nd draft

Elle felt the rusted glaky handle of the key, it looked centuries old. She examined it ~~carefully~~ ^{carefully} and saw one word on it: Thornhill. Once inside Elle leapt up the stairs, the air ~~was~~ ^{was} thick with rot and mold. As she plugged the key into the scratched keyhole, her mind raced with thoughts of what might be inside. She slowly opened the door, hearing the disorientating ~~whine~~ ^{whine} of the ~~noisy~~ ^{noisy} hinges which seemed not to have been opened for around 40 years. Elle saw the glistening sunlight rippling through the room. She noticed the warped corroded shelves that ~~held~~ ^{held} hundreds of deformed dolls. Elle ~~req~~ ^{req} recognised one of the ~~dolls~~ ^{dolls} though, Mistress Mary from Little Garden, her mum used to ~~read~~ ^{read} it to her. ~~So~~ ^{So} when she was younger. Then, out of the corner of her eye, Elle spied a ~~pair~~ ^{pair} of perfectly dressed dolls. She ~~slowly~~ ^{slowly} ~~walked~~ ^{walked} closer, ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~sun~~ ^{sun} ~~she~~ ^{she} noticed a tag on the first doll: 'from Elle.' As ~~she~~ ^{she} ~~picked~~ ^{picked} the ~~dolls~~ ^{dolls} up as her heart raced and her legs turned to jelly, she ~~tried~~ ^{tried} to accommodate what was happening but it was all to much. She woke up, now there was barely ~~only~~ ^{only} any light from the sun and she gazed at a decaying diary. She ~~clutched~~ ^{clutched} it with her ~~rugged~~ ^{rugged} skin looking at up ~~and~~ ^{and} down. Finally she drew a ~~small~~ ^{small} breath and blew of the ancient dust, she saw a ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~not~~ ^{not} a title on the book saying: 'A Diary of Mary Baines 1982. Everything ~~clicked~~ ^{clicked} into place. Elle's only friend, was a ghost.
